The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-3, 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Linn et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,169,839) in view of Albers-Schonberg et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,310,519).

Linn et al disclose closely analogous avermectin derivatives having antiparasitic activity (see, for example, column 2). The only difference between the claimed compounds and compounds disclosed by Linn et al is that Linn et al exclude compounds wherein both R4 and R5 are methyl groups. However, since avermectins having antiparasitic activity wherein both R4 and R5 are methyl groups were well known in the art at the time of the present invention as disclosed by Albers-Schonberg et al (column 25), it would have been prima facie obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to modify the compounds disclosed by Linn et al such that both R4 and R5 represent methyl groups, because the resulting compounds would be expected to possess antiparasitic activity.

Applicant's arguments filed July 10, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that Linn et al teaches away from the claimed compounds. This argument has not been found persuasive in that naturally occurring avermectins have methyl groups at positions represented by R4 and R5 and are known to possess antiparasitic activity as disclosed by Albers-Schonberg et al. With respect to the differences between the claimed compounds and compounds disclosed by Albers-Schonberg et al, note that said reference was used only to show that avermectins having both methyl groups at positions represented by R4 and R5 were known in the art to have antiparasitic activity at the time of the present invention.

With respect to data presented, said data has not been presented in the form of a declaration. It is not clear from the data presented the activity of which specific prior compounds and which specific claimed compounds were tested. Further, the present claims are not limited to the compounds tested i.e. the test data presented is not commensurate with the full scope of the claimed invention.

Claims 4 and 5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
